REDD+ must be transformational. REDD+ requires broad institutional and governance reforms, such as tenure, decentralisation, and corruption control. These reforms will enable departures from business as usual, and involve communities and forest users in making and implementing policies that affect them. Policies must go beyond forestry. REDD+ strategies must include policies outside the forestry sector narrowly defined, such as agriculture and energy, and better coordinate across sectors to deal with non-forest drivers of deforestation and degradation. Performance-based payments are key, yet limited. Payments based on performance directly incentivise and compensate forest owners and users. But schemes such as payments for environmental services (PES) depend on conditions, such as secure tenure, solid carbon data and transparent governance, that are often lacking and take time to change. This constraint reinforces the need for broad institutional and policy reforms. We must learn from the past. Many approaches to REDD+ now being considered are similar to previous efforts to conserve and better manage forests, often with limited success. Taking on board lessons learned from past experience will improve the prospects of REDD+ effectiveness. National circumstances and uncertainty must be factored in. Different country contexts will create a variety of REDD+ models with different institutional and policy mixes. Uncertainties about the shape of the future global REDD+ system, national readiness and political consensus require flexibility and a phased approach to REDD+ implementation.

Realising REDD+

Mutual-fund superstar Peter Lynch and author John Rothchild explain the basic principles of the stock market and business in an investing guide that will enlighten and entertain anyone who is high-school age or older. Many investors, including some with substantial portfolios, have only the sketchiest idea of how the stock market works. The reason, say Lynch and Rothchild, is that the basics of investing—the fundamentals of our economic system and what they have to do with the stock market—aren't taught in school. At a time when individuals have to make important decisions about saving for college and 401(k) retirement funds, this failure to provide a basic education in investing can have tragic consequences. For those who know what to look for, investment opportunities are everywhere. The average high-school student is familiar with Nike, Reebok, McDonald's, the Gap, and the Body Shop. Nearly every teenager in America drinks Coke or Pepsi, but only a very few own shares in either company or even understand how to buy them. Every student studies American history, but few realize that our country was settled by European colonists financed by public companies in England and Holland—and the basic principles behind public companies haven't changed in more than three hundred years. In Learn to Earn, Lynch and Rothchild explain in a style accessible to anyone who is high-school age or older how to read a stock table in the daily newspaper, how to understand a company annual report, and why everyone should pay attention to the stock market. They explain not only how to invest, but also how to think like an investor.

The second half of the twentieth century was dominated by the unfolding drama of the Cold War, from the Berlin blockade to the fall of the Berlin Wall. A booming global economy has had its sinister shadow in the apparently insoluble crises that have beset much of the Third World. Above all, peace in the West has been offset by wars of unbelievable murderousness elsewhere. Reynolds' account is both an overview of the trends underlying this spectacular and awful variety, and an insight into the lives led in its midst.

This book examines how disruptive technologies and innovation underpin the attainment of a broader development agenda in Africa. Contributors show how distinctive forms of technological innovation can impact critical development processes. For example, disruptive technologies can deepen the ongoing democratic and governance waves in Africa, specifically in the area of contested elections. Similarly, innovations in agriculture, the environment and energy promote changes in value chain agriculture, and the use of sensors to manage e-waste and sustainable energy conservation are also transforming established practices. Furthermore, the role of disruptive technologies and innovation in education, health, financial services and the nature of paid work cannot be ignored. Individually and collectively, the authors discuss and highlight the mechanisms and initiatives that can contribute to the realization of the development goals of African countries, especially in a period where disruptive technologies are rapidly changing how things are done. As a result, this book, which represents one of the most recent systematic efforts to bring together dialogue on disruptive technologies in Africa, will be of particular use and benefit to a wide and an eclectic audience.

This is the first systematic and critical analysis of the concept of national interest from the perspective of contemporary theories of International Relations, including realist, Marxist, anarchist, liberal, English School and constructivist perspectives. Your Kingdom Come - Questions & Answers - Part 1

This is a shorter version of the book 'Your Kingdom Come' by the same author, in the form of "straight to the point" questions and answers. Most Christians and Churches are mistaken in their primary belief of the gospel, and consequently of what church means, and what God expects us to do in this world. The good news of the Kingdom of God is about the Kingdom of God. It is not about where a person will go after he dies. It is about God's Kingdom coming. It is about the restoration of God's Kingdom on earth. Jesus made it clear that the restoration began when He came, and it will be completed when He comes again. When we realise that God wants His Kingdom to rule not only in heaven but also on earth, and not only in the future but here and now, our perspective on life, church, ministry, and missions, radically changes. Instead of trying to get as many people as possible into church and into heaven, we will work with God for His Kingdom to come and His will to be done on earth as in heaven.

So Many Years with the Problems of People Part 1

The history of questions with me is lengthy. Since I have been ordained a Bishop on September 30, 1962, over twenty-five years ago, I adopted a specific method in teaching and preaching: to give a chance for the audience to introduce their questions and have them answered before the beginning of the main lecture. This way thousands of questions accumulated before me during the thousands of lectures that I have given, in the weekly spiritual meetings, on Friday evenings; the Bible study meetings on Tuesday (1968-1972); the theological lectures on Wednesday; my meetings with the priests; with the Sunday school teachers and their conferences; the meetings of college societies; general meetings in Alexandria, on Sunday; the lectures that were given in the theological seminary in Alexandria and Cairo; or the spiritual meetings during my visits to churches and dioceses. Even before my monastic life, I used to answer the spiritual questions of the readers of the Sunday school magazine and the questions followed me everywhere, even in the monastery. The questions varied some around biblical verses, some about theology, doctrines, ministry, spiritual life or social relationships and many other subjects... I excluded what was repetitious, personal, or what I answered with one sentence or a joke. I chose what was fit from the questions for publication, so the people would not have to ask the same questions again and to have almost uniform answers to such questions. Pope Shenouda III

Question and Answer

In the period 1949-1952 during contact evenings in the 'Ken U Zelven' building in De Ruyterstraat in The Hague, Jozef Rulof answered questions from the public. Many of the questions were about the content of the books which had already been published. Other questions were about the themes and questions of life and death occupying the public. The questions and answers were first recorded in writing and worked out by Mrs C. Bruning, who was appointed by Jozef Rulof for this purpose. Jozef Rulof altered and added to the records until he was satisfied that they were a well-considered entirety, which you will find in part 1 of Questions and Answers. Later the contact evenings were recorded by wire recorder (the forerunner of the tape recorder). The text from these sound recordings was typed out. In order to give the reader as complete a copy as possible of the original spoken text, parts 2, 3 and 4 of Questions and Answers contain the text literally spoken by Jozef Rulof. The editors are aware of the fact that these books do not contain fluent texts in good Dutch. The main purpose of these books is therefore to provide already advanced readers with study material to further enrich their spiritual knowledge and insight. Parts 5 and 6 of Questions and Answers contain the answers which Master Zelanus gave to the public during the contact evenings in the Sarphatistraat in Amsterdam. These parts also contain the literal spoken text. Some of these questions also concerned the lectures which Master Zelanus gave during the same period in the 'Diligentia' building in The Hague, and they are recorded in the three parts of the 'Lectures'. During these evenings the speakers constantly repeated that the answers were intended for people who had read all the previously published books.

Q. Why do you want to work for the United Nations?

Q. Provide an example of when you experienced a setback at work?

When I first started work, I was part of a team whose responsibility it was to complete and deliver an important project for a client. We all worked really hard on the project for three months. However, when we came to deliver the project, the client refused to pay the Invoice because we had failed to deliver the exact specification on one particular element of the project.

Q. Tell me how you would explain something complex or difficult to someone who did not have the same level of knowledge as you?

Q. Describe a situation when you put the needs of a client or customer first? In my previous job I was speaking to a customer on the telephone who needed help understanding one of our products.

The customer had limited technical ability, and so I decided to go the extra mile and help her fully understand the product.

Q. Explain to me how you organize and plan your workload?

organize and plan my work by following four specific steps. The first step (STEP 1) is to determine the tasks that need my attention. During STEP 2, I will prioritize and sequence my work. I decide which tasks are the most important, and then create a 'to do list' based on the order and priority of each task.

'Q. Describe a situation you were in when you encouraged a team to be more proactive or positive? I really enjoy working as part of a team, and one particular situation comes to mind where I managed to motivate a team to get back on track to achieve our objectives.
