Introduction to the Abolition of Aging project

Scientific feasibility

Objection 1: Not scientifically possible

Objection 2: Environmental impact

Objection 3: Adverse social security impact

35:52.Objection 5: Adverse philosophical impact

What would you say to someone who suggested maximal lifespan extension may be modest?

How would you compare the humanitarian impact of abolishing aging to funding malaria nets?

Are you concerned that greater average lifespans would slow down the pace of social changes?

What are your thoughts on how we can ensure a smooth transition once [these technologies] are on the horizon?

Could you expand upon what a better politics look like? Is it realistic that we have adequate politics in the future?

What are some problems for life extension progress in the future that have not yet arrived? (e.g. neo-ludditism)

What are the top 3 things that we can do to progress the abolition of aging project?
